LEATHER WATCHSTRAP MANUFACTURING

How we work

From your requirements to delivery

This guide explains the approvals and steps that turn your watchstrap requirements into a confirmed order and finished delivery.

The approval sequence

Inquiry > Specification > Quotation > Development sample > Written approval

Order confirmation > Deposit > Bulk sample > Written approval

Bulk production > Quality control > Final payment > Shipping

One agreed reference

The approved bulk sample and final specification guide production and quality checks. The accepted quotation and order confirm quantities, USD prices, payment and delivery terms.

Share your requirements

01 Materials and product specifications

Tell us what you need

Share your design, reference strap, drawing or photographs, together with quantities, destination and target delivery date.

Tell us your preferred materials and any components or packaging you will supply. AKC reviews feasibility and confirms the scope with you.

Confirm the specifications

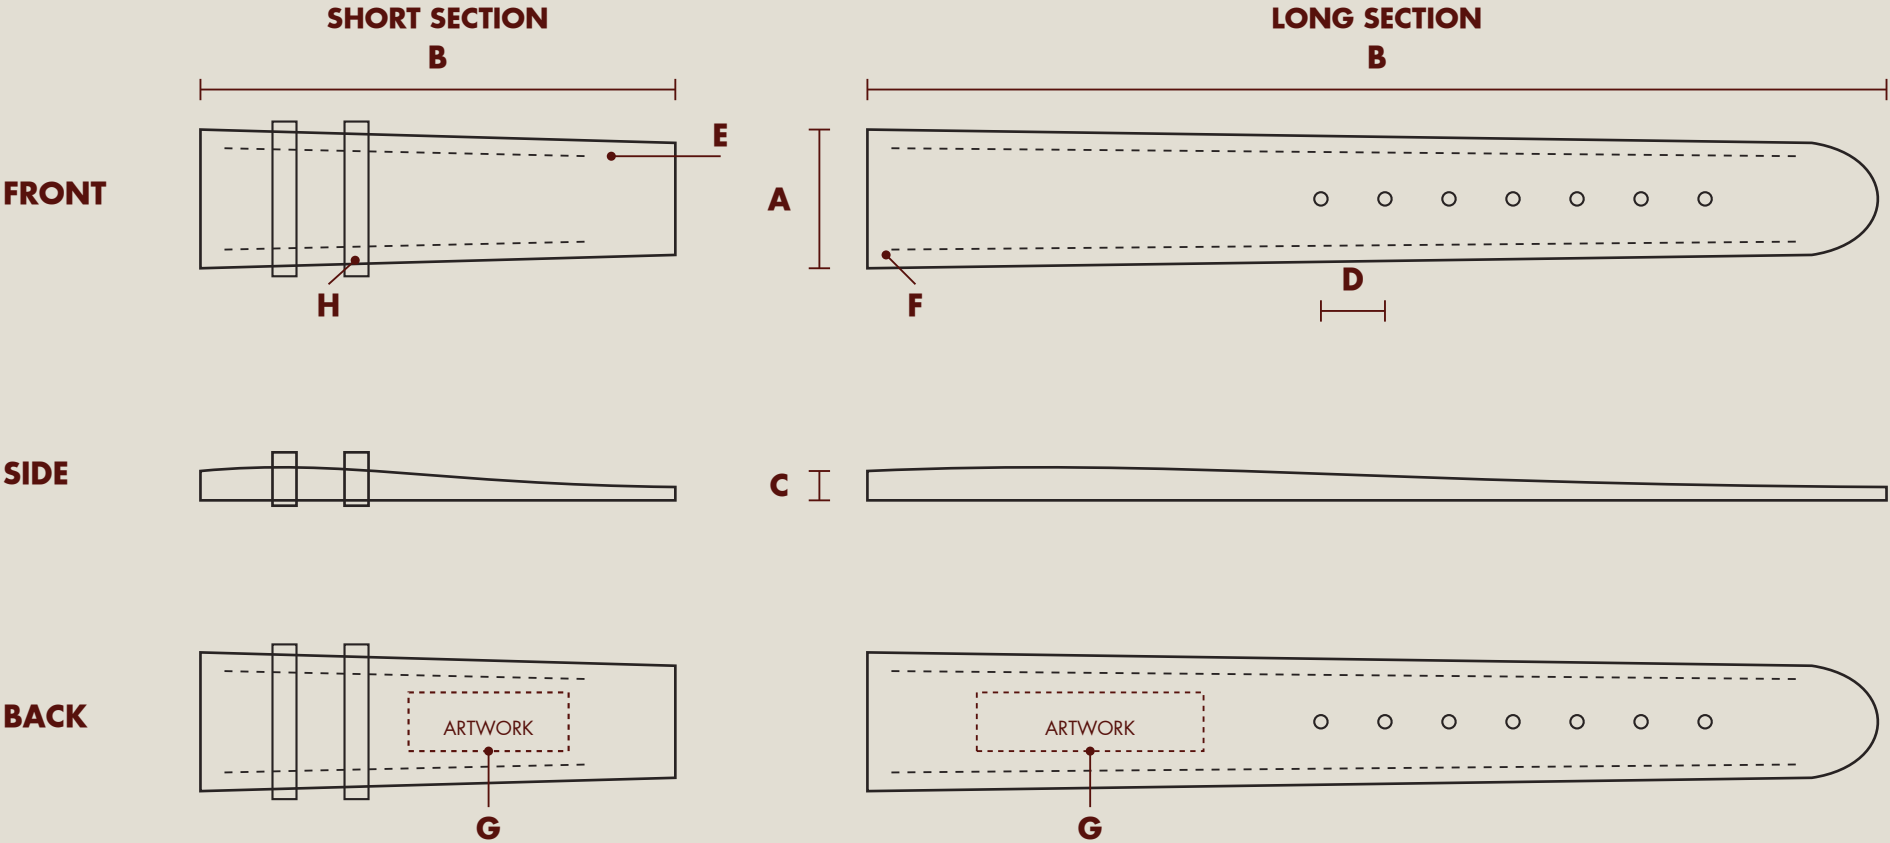

Materials and product specifications are agreed for each variation. Specifications include the required dimensions, construction, stitching, finishing, hardware, branding and packaging.

Use the technical drawing on the next page as a guide to the details to verify. AKC confirms the project-specific drawing and requirements before sampling.

02 USD prices, quantities and terms

Review the offer

Confirm each variation, quantity, USD price and included materials, hardware, branding and packaging. Sample fees, additional charges and shipping are stated separately or expressly included.

MOQ: 50 complete straps per variation and lug width. Confirm all variation and size splits in the quotation.

Confirm quotation validity, sample and bulk production lead times, payment milestones and the agreed shipping term.

Agree responsibilities

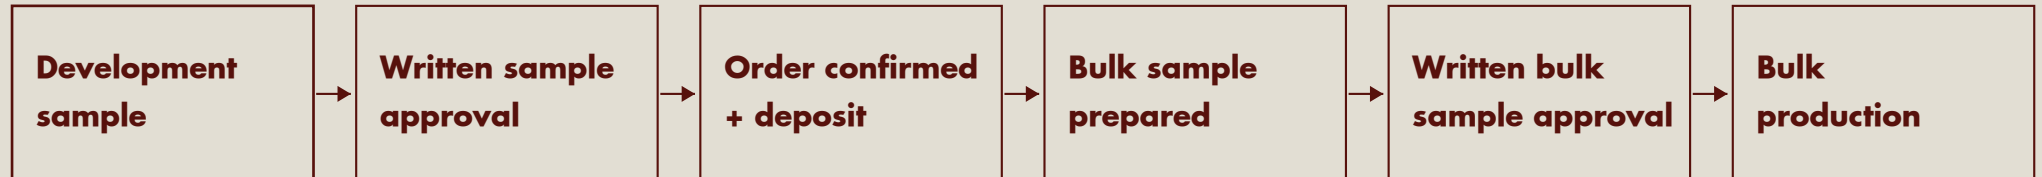

Confirm who supplies materials, components and packaging. Agree their specifications, quantities, delivery and suitability before use.

Confirm any required shipping documents for the chosen materials and destination.

Record changes in writing before proceeding. Rates are reviewed every six months; accepted orders follow the agreed terms.

Sampling and approval

03 Development sample, then bulk sample

Changes needed? Agree the revision, fee and timing; revise and review again before approval.

Approve the development sample

The Sample Quotation confirms quantities, USD charges, revision allowance, payment and lead time. Sampling starts when the scope, payment and required materials are confirmed.

Review materials, specifications, fit and finish against the agreed requirements. Submit any changes together and approve the sample revision in writing.

Approve the bulk sample

After order confirmation and deposit, AKC prepares a bulk sample using the agreed bulk-order materials and final specification. Confirm its quantity, timing and any charges in the order.

Approve the bulk sample in writing before bulk production. Resolve and reapprove changes first. This sample and the final specification become the production and QC reference.

Sample costs are credited toward a bulk order only when expressly agreed in the quotation.

Production and quality control

04 Manufacture to the approved bulk sample

Release bulk production

Confirm the order quantities, USD pricing, approved specification, packaging and delivery terms. The quotation and order documents must agree.

Bulk production starts after written order confirmation, agreed deposit receipt, accepted materials and artwork, and written bulk sample approval.

AKC confirms the production start and expected dispatch date. Sample review time and manufacturing lead time are stated separately.

Check before shipment

AKC checks materials, dimensions, construction, finishing, hardware and markings against the approved bulk sample and final specification. Agree any additional inspection requirements in the order.

Resolve nonconforming items before final quality release and packing.

Changes after approval may affect cost and delivery. Agree revised requirements and timing in writing before affected work continues.

Shipping and follow-up

05 Final payment, shipment and support

Prepare for shipment

After QC, AKC confirms actual shipment quantities and the remaining payment. Complete final payment according to the agreed schedule before shipping.

Confirm the shipping term and named place, delivery address, carrier arrangements and responsibility for freight, insurance, clearance and duties. Manufacturing and transit times are separate.

Receive and check the delivery

The Commercial Invoice and Packing List use the same shipment reference and actual shipped quantities. Any partial shipment requires agreement.

AKC provides the agreed shipment documents and transport or tracking reference.

Check delivery against the shipment documents. Report issues with the order reference, affected quantities and supporting photographs within the agreed claim period.
